How Thousands of American Women and Girls Make Themselves Beautiful, Dress Lavishly, Enjoy Pleasure Trips and Have Money to Spare.

New York, July 9.—SPECIAL: "The dawn of a new era for women is at hand," says Madame Abby Beatrice Knowles, magazine writer, author and beauty specialist, in her latest book. Women and girls everywhere are fully awakened to the necessity of making themselves as attractive as possible, and there are few women indeed who do not appreciate an opportunity to enjoy the pleasures of beautiful clothes, sight seeing, and all that a good appearance and plenty of money afford. This belief finds its strongest support in the fact that thousands are deserting the old vocations of dressmaking, stenography, etc., for the new profession of beauty culture.

Enthusiased with the idea of giving every woman and girl an opportunity to improve her appearance and learn this new, dignified and profitable profession, Mrs. Knowles has established an international institute devoted exclusively to teaching beauty culture by correspondence and the manufacture of beauty treatments by her secret process. Fifty thousand copies of a beautifully illustrated book, entitled "Lessons by Mail—Beauty Culture," have been printed for free distribution and will be sent by mail to women and girls everywhere. Aside from the free distribution of books, by special arrangement, a limited number of the new discovery beauty treatments for home use are to be sent to women and girls as an inducement to take up the new profession of beauty culture.

We are authorized to announce that all women and girl readers of The Herald can enjoy the privilege of this remarkable free offer. Those who have wrinkles, a poor complexion, thin, scrawny neck and arms, an undeveloped bust, or who are interested in the profession of beauty culture, should write direct to Abby Beatrice Knowles, Suite 25 E., No. 2236 Eighth Ave., New York. It is not necessary to send any money, simply state that you saw the announcement in the El Paso Herald and give your name and address. Mrs. Knowles will treat your correspondence as strictly confidential.
